

Internship Program for the Administrative Division of the Michigan Supreme Court

Maura D. Corrigan, Chief Justice of the Michigan Supreme Court, encourages college juniors, seniors, graduate students, and law students to apply for the internship program. Participants will work in the administrative division of the Supreme Court. Through meaningful hands-on work experience, the internship program provides a window through which to view potential careers, as well as insights into the workings of the judicial system.

Program Guidelines

Participants in the administrative and legal support internship program may work up to 20 hour weeks with flexible schedules for one full term or semester during the regular school year. A participant may work full time, or up to 37.5 hours per week, during the summer if the needs of the department so warrant. Where possible, the court will work with the student's college or university to allow the student to earn school credit for participating in the intern program. Monetary compensation for participants is not available.

Positions are primarily based in Lansing at the Michigan Hall of Justice; however, limited placements may also be available within other court locations.
